

Character Bio for Norman C. Larks

Name: Norman Cummings Larks

Family: Father –Mark Larks (Divorced, Has custody of Norman)
Mother – Sara Price (Divorced)
Step Mother - Veronica Domnel-Larks
Sister – Hope Larks (Not born yet)
Fiancé – Marilyn McCluskey

Age: 18

Birthdate: July 21, 1988

Eye Color: Brown

Hair Color: Black Length: Short

Distinguishing Marks: Tattoos

Tattoos:

Ying Yang symbol with the words 'Always look on the bright side of life'
Located on his right chest.

Emblem of the Klingon Empire with the words 'A dish best served cold.'
Located on his left shoulder.

The Star Trek logo
Located on his left chest.

Father tiger and his cub sitting together
Located on his right shoulder.

Race: Human

Nationality: American

Gender: Male

Dominant Hand: Right

Height: 5' 11"

Weight: 135lbs

Appearance: Norman's appearance has changed a lot over the last year. Where he used to dress more like a geek now days, he either dresses in heavy metal t-shirts and jeans or he is in business casual. The latter dress is because of his work. His skin is now flawless thanks to the healing that the Fae deity did to him. He also no longer has any cybernetic from the healing but his immune systems have been repaired.

Bio: Norman mom left shortly after he was born. She didn't want a child hurt her movie career. She gave Mark full custody. She didn't even what visitation rights. His dad raised him as best as he could. His father is a FX & Makeup artist. Norman was partly raised along with his cousins Jeff and Molly. They split living in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Once in a while is father would get a long term job in another location and they would move to the new location. Early in Norman's life he showed signs that he was a genius. By the age of six he started taking apart any mechanical device he could get his hands on. The only reason he didn't finished high school is because they moved out of country a few times. When he turned 15 his father gave him gifts of Vulcan prosecute ears. A proud moment for his father was when he built his own motorcycle. Of course it was the bike from Tron: Legacy. He passed his motorcycle license in one try on his 16th birthday. He is part owner of Larks Technologies, the company that his father created for him to attached his inventions too. The other owner is his cousin, Rebecca Thompson. Who gain ownership of the company when Norman was though was dead over the summer in 2006. He was really lost between tick and tock. i.e. a plane without time.

Skills: Auto Mechanics, Mechanical Engineer, Electronics, Advance Mathematics, Star Trek Lore, Science Fiction Lore, Chess, Computer Repair, Gunsmith, First Aid, Firearms, Robotics, Aerodynamics, Quantum Mechanics, Basic Chemistry, & Basic Human Biology.

Degrees: BS in Mechanical Engineer, BS in Electrical Engineer

Languages: English, Italian, Klingon, Vulcan, & Spanish.

Licenses: Motorcycle, Automobile, Carry & Conceal, & Federal Firearms Licenses

Powers:

Supernatural Intelligent: IQ of 252+, Eidetic Memory

Intuitive Genius: Norman has a superhuman intuitive talent for inventing mechanical devices. His mutant ability functions as perception, as he possesses the ability to visually perceive “mechanical energy” (the kinetic energy and potential energy present in the components of mechanical systems) in action. This power allows Norman to instinctively know and understand the potential and functional operations of any machine or technological device in his visual range, a skill that combined with his supernatural intelligence allows him to conceive, design and build mechanical devices; and operate, modify and disassemble existing technology or create countermeasures for it.

At Start of HSH: Chief Engineer of the R&D Department at Larks Technology. Part owner of Larks Technology. Senior as RBHS. Working on BS in Materials Science and BS in Engineering Science at Berkeley.